

Today CANADA GIVES EX-SOLDIERS 6 MONTHS' PAY

Feed, Don't Shout.
Full Stomach, Contented Mind.
"No Irish in Paris."
No Chinese, Either.
By Arthur Brisbane

In New York City alone, according to the District Attorney, more than three millions of dollars was stolen by "war charity" promoters. The most recent stolen in this country in the name of charity by amateurs and professionals will never be known. If we ever have another war, wouldn't it be a good idea to let the government include cars of soldiers to its other activities? France would have many amiable citizens from all working themselves in the name of charity and from looting their neighbors. And it would pay a great deal of trouble, discourage grafting and, judging by the stories of soldiers returning from Europe, it would be more satisfactory to them.

England has suggested "that the Russian Bolsheviks be invited to send peace delegates to Paris and be recognized."

The New York Times, shocked, says that the "darkness and unreason" of this English suggestion "can not too soon be explained to an amazed world."

England probably will do her own explaining. For one thing, this government has had a good deal of experience during the French Revolution, and before and after that, that was enlightening and clear, that was decided to the editor of the New York Times. The English, having already dealt with a British Revolution, discovered, perhaps, that the wise thing is to leave such a demonstration to work out its own destiny.

In addition, it must be remembered that the attitude of France and England toward Russia are different. All must every French workman in the street of a Russian town and all those heads are regulated by the Bolsheviks. French capitalists have thousands of millions invested in Russian enterprises. And the people of moderate means have other millions invested in Russian loans. It is natural that the French should seek to protect her citizens against consideration. Her money was lent in good faith.

It is natural that England, having no such claim on Russia, should desire to keep out of the mess, keep on good terms and make it possible for her to do business with the Bolsheviks in case they should win.

As to the United States, we have, it is true, lost some millions to Russia and taken loans. Our International Harvester Company and other enterprises have large sums invested there. And our citizens should be protected if it can be done wisely.

President Wilson, who is in Paris, does it can be trusted to act judiciously. It is announced that he means to have all our soldiers lock here by next September. That would seem to indicate that the United States is not to be a belligerent in Russia. Perhaps he agrees with Lloyd George, who has the thing in his mind. But the United States, while we attend to our business and keep out of further complications until we clear up this war, we are at a time in which our soldiers are to be sent to France.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin wanted to go to Paris to invite President Wilson to Ireland. He couldn't get a passport, they wouldn't let him in. That takes you back to the days when help wanted advertisements in the English papers habitually concluded with the words, "No Irish need apply."

The Chinese are not so fit at the present time. The Japanese still have interfering arrangements. The President, in an urgent message calling upon Congress to appropriate a hundred millions for relief in Europe, cables words of wisdom, namely, "the way to discourage Balkanisms is to feed the Continent."

There is no doubt that it will cost this country a great deal more to feed the disoriented in Europe than to subdue them and police Europe for the allies. If we must do one or the other, let us rather be subject to sending millions, no matter how many, to feed the starving. They would object to sending American soldiers to shoot the starving, no matter how foolish they might be, but they would not object to our how disorganize our armies in Europe.

SALARY WILL FREE LIFE TO SHOT LEBAUDY TO 'SAVE' DAUGHTER

HEADS OF DEATHS OF CITED

New York, Jan. 14.—Miss, Jacques Lebaudy, who admitted the slaying of her husband, executed former "Emperor of the Sahara," probably will be freed of a murder charge.

This was the opinion of the Minnesota court today among those who have been in close touch with the case since early.

It was predicted that a finding of "justifiable homicide" would be returned by tomorrow night by the Minnesota County Grand Jury, which began its sittings on the case yesterday afternoon.

It is believed that Mrs. Lebaudy's immediate fate will hinge on the verdict of the Minnesota jury to be given promptly in this morning's session of the Grand Jury by the Hon. Judge William F. McInnis, pastor of St. Francis, Roman Catholic Church, at Westbury, where Mrs. Lebaudy and her daughter Jacqueline resided.

The second probably will be the Western Union messenger, Jack Henderson, who accompanied Lebaudy to "The Lodge" on Saturday night.

FREQUENTLY SUMMONED.

The Rev. Father McInnis is expected to show how Mrs. Lebaudy's husband was constantly threatened by the master of "The Lodge."

Just last night that he had been summoned frequently to the Lebaudy house and implied that an execution would be carried out on the spot.

The messenger who is expected to testify is Lebaudy's husband, who was summoned to the house by the Rev. Father McInnis, who was summoned to the house by the Rev. Father McInnis, who was summoned to the house by the Rev. Father McInnis.

WOMEN FOR PARENTAGE.

Ellie Rogers, cook at "The Lodge," was examined today. According to a statement given by William F. McInnis, the Rev. Father McInnis, who was summoned to the house by the Rev. Father McInnis, who was summoned to the house by the Rev. Father McInnis.

FACE PALE AND DRAWN.

The girl went immediately to the office of District Attorney Weeks in the south wing, second floor of the building. Her face was pale and drawn, her eyes were red and swollen, her hair was dark and wavy. Her figure was slender and graceful. Her dress was dark and simple. Her hands were small and delicate. Her feet were small and delicate.

April 29, 1918.

Dear Mr. Anderson:

I thank you for your letter of the 23d and for the copy of the editorial from the New York American, which I had read but am glad to have brought fresh to my attention with the suggestion of possible wider public use of the facts set forth in it.

This sort of editorial seems to me essentially helpful because it has a lot of reliable information and tends to show in an effective way the progress which the country is making in many of the vital factors connected with the war. I hope Mr. Creel will find it possible to co-operate in the matter.

Cordially yours,

Mr. W. F. Anderson,

To the Editor San Francisco Examiner:

My Dear Sir:—Before leaving San Francisco, which I do in one hour, I desire to write you expressing my sincere appreciation of the very generous and liberal policy pursued by The Examiner in assisting in recruiting for the Army, Navy and Marine Corps. This type of newspaper enterprise seems to me most public spirited, and I feel that I should not go away without expressing my appreciation.

Truly and sincerely yours,

J. FRANKLIN BELL,

To the Editor of The Examiner,
San Francisco:

My Dear Sir:—Permit me to take this, the first opportunity I have had since our departure from your city, to thank you for your many courtesies and kindnesses to us during our stay in your city. I have read with a great deal of interest many of the articles published in your paper during our stay in your city, praising the work of myself and party, as well as of the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation in general. It is such co-operation that will go a long way toward presenting the true facts to the public at large and impressing upon them the importance of our task, and I feel confident that with the assistance of the press of this country, such as you have given us in this vast undertaking, the inevitable result will be nothing but success.

Yours very truly,

Director General.

From the SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.

THE SECRETARY OF THE NAVY
WASHINGTON

April 1, 1917.

Editor New York American:

The page in the Hearst newspapers to-day devoted to a campaign in aid of recruiting shows a splendid spirit of patriotism. You have made known clearly to the public the need in the navy of young men of spirit and ambition to serve their country in an emergency.

Such work is manifestly a great public service. It is particularly a great service because done at a time when the enlisted personnel is of the highest grade, and when it is desirable that more of such men should be added as soon as possible to the ranks of a navy which in respect of personnel is the best in the world.

The plan indicated on the recruiting page of the New York American to-day will be followed undoubtedly by very material and gratifying results. Certainly it sets forth advantages which have never before been offered to the men of any navy in the world.

I assume that the same practical interest as that shown by the New York American is being taken in the recruiting by all of the Hearst papers. Work in such cities as San Francisco, Los Angeles and Chicago, similar to that being done in New York, will undoubtedly result in a notable increase in the enlisted force, and that very promptly.

We hope to have 25,000 more at least very soon. The efforts of the New York American will contribute very largely in carrying out the purposes of the navy at this time.

With kind regards, believe me

Sincerely yours,

Jacques Daniel

FEDERAL RESERVE DISTRICT NUMBER SIXTY

103 WEST MONROE STREET
CHICAGO

November 16th, 1918.

My Dear Mr. Curley:—

The Chicago Evening American assuredly played a most important part in winning victory for the Fourth Liberty Loan in Chicago.

Had it not been for your loyal support, not only throughout the three weeks' drive, but in the preliminary campaign as well, we doubtless would have had less cause to feel gratified on the closing day. I know of no publication that did more than The American to obtain the success that was ours on that day. Especially in the matter of pictorial space The American merits the widest commendation; I often observed that your Liberty Loan cartoons and photographic layouts excited much comment, and thereby, of course, popularized the Loan, which, after all, was a prime object of the Government. On every side, throughout the drive, I heard the warmest praise for The American.

Gratefully yours,

Ben F. McIntosh,
Director of Publicity,
Seventh Federal Reserve District.

Editor Chicago American:

Dear Sir:—

I wish to express my appreciation and thanks of the patients in this hospital for your great kindness in giving them a Xmas which has been thoroughly appreciated by all the patients here.

I assure you that it is impossible for me to state the full appreciation of the enlisted men in the navy who are sick in this hospital, for your kindness to them.

Most sincerely,

Editor Chicago American:—

Dear Sir:—I am pleased to have this opportunity to present to you the enclosed War Savings Service Certificate as a token of our gratitude for the co-operation given this committee by the Chicago Evening American in the recent drive for NATIONAL WAR SAVINGS DAY.

The wide influence of the Chicago Evening American, coupled with your initiative in presenting to your readers editorials and other means of expression, helped us greatly to achieve this success.

Special thanks are due you for the manner in which you presented President Wilson's proclamation to your readers. We are certain a large measure of the credit for the success of the drive is due to the efforts of the American.

Very truly yours,

Editor "Examiner," Los Angeles, Cal.
Dear Sir:
Patriotically, loyally and vigorously standing behind the third Liberty Loan campaign, the Los Angeles "Examiner" has done a wonderful work in helping to promote this great National movement, and the fact that Los Angeles has leaped over the top is largely due to the influence of your paper upon the reading public.

In expressing its thanks for the generous giving of your valuable space throughout the entire campaign, we wish to particularly express our appreciation of the valiant manner in which you rallied to the support of the loan at a time when the subscriptions were falling a little behind and helped to put Los Angeles over the top, wonderfully achieving place in a class by itself for cities of its size. I believe when the official records are in our city will stand alone as to the average amount of personal subscriptions and in the number of subscriptions.

Gentlemen:
I desire to congratulate you very heartily upon the truck and tractor show at the Auditorium held under the auspices of your progressive newspaper.

We are all familiar with the scarcity of farm labor and know that some arrangement must be made to raise a maximum crop of wheat at a minimum amount of hand labor. In giving this object lesson to the people of the State I believe you are performing a highly patriotic service, and for the Tractor Committee of the State Council of Defense I desire to thank you.

With my very best wishes, I beg to remain,

A Power in the South Is the Atlanta Georgian

Editor Atlanta Georgian:
I cannot express my full appreciation for the great service you have rendered our country and the Central Liberty Loan Committee, through your editorials, cartoons and other publicity, in connection with the Liberty Loan Campaign. When the figures are known The Georgian can have the satisfaction of knowing that it has done more than its "bit."

W. C. WARDLAW,
Chairman, Liberty Loan Central Committee, 6th District.

Editor Atlanta Georgian:
If other newspapers throughout the country devoted as much space and were as untiring in their efforts as The Georgian, it is not surprising that the loan was oversubscribed.

H. L. DeGIVE,
Chairman Posting Committee.

Editor Atlanta Georgian:
Had it not been for the publicity given this campaign by the daily press and especially by The Georgian, the vast object of the Central Committee would never have been accomplished. Your paper did its part nobly, and I congratulate you and The Georgian upon the results obtained.

W. CARROLL LATIMER,

To the Editor of The Atlanta Georgian:
Sir—My attention has been called to the generous and patriotic manner in which you have devoted your time and energy to the interests of the Marine Corps and the many ways in which you have assisted in stimulating and encouraging recruiting, and I assure you that this practical and helpful expression of your patriotism and high sense of public duty is greatly appreciated. On behalf of the officers and men of the United States Marine Corps, I thank you most sincerely for your valuable and hearty support.

Sir—May I send you the deepest and most heartfelt thanks for your kindness to the War Work Council of the Young Women's Christian Association in their recent campaign for $100,000 as San Francisco's share of the $4,000,000 fund? We feel that a large measure of our success in raising this amount was due to the generous publicity you gave the cause, and we assure you of our earnest appreciation.

To the Editor of The Examiner, San Francisco:

Sir—With the passing of the old year and the advent of the new it seems particularly fitting that I express to you my appreciation of the assistance The Examiner has given the San Francisco district for army recruiting in the months gone by and to extend to you the wish that success and prosperity will be yours in the months to come.

The San Francisco district has established for itself a record which has not been equaled by any other district since the war began according to population. I realize that without the support of The Examiner and the other newspapers of the district this success could not have been attained.

You have been most generous with your space to the recruiting service, and your interest and enthusiasm are to be highly commended.

Very respectfully yours,
JOHN H. GARDNER,
Lieutenant-Colonel, U. S. Army, Retired,

CHICAGO CHAPTER QUOTA $6,000.00

Chicago, June 3, 1918.

Mr. Hector Elwell, City Editor
The Chicago Evening American,
Chicago, Illinois.

My dear Mr. Elwell:

Now that the Red Cross campaign is over and Chicago has achieved its quota of $6,000,000, I desire to express to you our earnest appreciation of your invaluable help in obtaining this contribution.

THE CHICAGO EVENING AMERICAN has been of inestimable aid to us in this campaign, and I am merely echoing the staunch belief of all our campaign leaders when I say that the publicity you have given to the Red Cross campaign has been one of the most conspicuous factors in our success.

Very truly yours,

Chairman.

Dear Mr. Bryan—I have been so busy getting up reports that this is my first opportunity to thank you for your valuable assistance during the great campaign just closed, and I am sure you rejoice with me that the Sixth Federal Reserve District went "Over the Top" in such excellent shape, due, in large measure, to the wonderful cooperation of such men as your good self. I feel under lasting obligations for this sacrifice on your part, and in behalf of the Government, extend to you my warm appreciation.

 My Dear Mr. Merrill:
 May I in the midst of the rush of the opening campaign tell you how delighted we all were with the story which appeared in the American this morning? It was just the sort of story that should be written to appeal to the people throughout the District and even the country. While bond-selling is a financial matter, the sale of Liberty Loan Bonds is a big patriotic undertaking, and we feel it should be treated in the newspapers from that point of view.
 With many thanks for the help which you and The American are giving to us, I am

Sincerely yours,

 Director of Publicity, Second Federal Reserve District.

 November 26th, 1918.

The New York American,
 New York City.
 It is with great pleasure that we advise you that the Judges of Awards in the EDITOR AND PUBLISHER Liberty Loan Editorial Contest have decided to present to the New York American two certificates of distinguished merit in recognition of the service rendered to the nation by the New York American and Messrs. James J. Montague and Philip Francis, of your editorial department, in printing in the editorial columns of the New York American, under date of September 24th and October 4th, two editorials, one by Mr. Montague entitled "Land as They Fight," the other by Mr. Francis entitled "All Together."
 Three distinguished journalists, Messrs. Stephane Laurance, Chester S. Lord and S. S. Carroll, have acted for the EDITOR AND PUBLISHER as a committee of judges in this contest, in which 636 editorials were entered, representing a majority of the important newspapers of the United States. The Judges have made their decision without any knowledge of the sources of the editorials submitted to them.

Very sincerely yours,

 President and Editor.

 Gentlemen:
 I feel that it is most fitting that I should write to you expressing my personal appreciation of the invaluable services you rendered the work of the Salvation Army in connection with the recent Chicago campaign.
 The success in this particular drive was perhaps greater than any of us expected in the beginning. I feel that much of the splendid showing made here in Chicago was due to the personal interest and assistance which you rendered.
 Cordially yours,

 Commissioner.

 Managing Editor, Chicago American and Herald, Chicago, Ill.
 Success of national war savings day, June twenty-eighth, depends largely on continuation of assistance which your newspaper is so loyally furnishing our organization in your State. Am asking a few leading newspapers, including yours, to request their cartoonists to prepare special war savings day cartoon for use in your paper on June twenty-eighth. Be assured that this co-operation will be appreciated as a genuinely patriotic contribution in the great cause to which we are all pledged. Thanks in advance.

LIBERTY LOAN CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

Editor Chicago Evening American,
 My Dear Sir:
 Allow me to thank you very sincerely for the splendid co-operation the American gave this Bureau in the publicity work of the Third Liberty Loan Campaign. Your editorials, your cartoons, your news stories and news photographs were certainly wonderfully effective. The American's work in this connection undoubtedly exerted the widest kind of an influence.

 Dear Mr. Bryan:
 We are proud to have had some part, however small, in the splendid Liberty Loan Campaign, which has come to such a successful end. We are proud of Atlanta, of the Sixth District, and of our beloved Country, the Great American Republic.
 We realize, however, that the most effective work in the campaign was contributed by the greatest of all civilizing and educational factors, the public Press; conspicuous among which was the powerful editorials of THE GEORGIAN.
 Sincerely and cordially yours,

My Dear Mr. Curley:
 It has been very gratifying to me to note from time to time the spirit of friendly co-operation manifested by the Chicago Evening American in assisting in the establishment of a closer bond between the Great Lakes Naval Training Station and the parents, relatives and friends of the young men under instruction, as well as the public generally. This has undoubtedly been a most helpful means of creating a wider degree of and more thorough interest in the constructive work being accomplished here.
 Please be assured that this co-operation is received with every appreciation and sincere thanks.

Glories of the Winter Moon

THIS year January has two new moons, the first on January 2 and the second on January 31. The moon falls on the morning of January 16. The full moons of midwinter are the most splendid of the year, because, being necessarily situated opposite to the sun, they are highest in the northern sky when the sun is lowest.

The Hidden Truth

READ IT HERE DAILY AND THEN SEE THE PLAY
A New Motion Picture With Anna Case, the Famous Opera Star

By Jane McLean

Extracted from the motion picture play, "The Hidden Truth," first version copyrighted. Produced by International Film Service Company, Inc., under the personal direction of Julius J. Reager. The film rights are being released by United Pictures Corporation.

"The Hidden Truth" is a story of a woman who finds herself in a difficult position. She is a famous opera star, and her life is a constant struggle between her art and her personal life.

She is a woman of great talent, and her voice is heard in every corner of the world. But her life is not all that it seems to be. There are secrets hidden away in her heart, secrets that she has kept for years.

She is a woman of great strength, and she has the courage to face whatever comes her way. But she is also a woman of great weakness, and she has the tendency to let her emotions get the best of her.

She is a woman of great beauty, and she has the power to captivate the hearts of men. But she is also a woman of great mystery, and she has the ability to keep her secrets hidden away from the world.

She is a woman of great love, and she has the ability to give her heart to the man she loves. But she is also a woman of great pride, and she has the tendency to let her pride get in the way of her love.

She is a woman of great faith, and she has the ability to believe in the best of herself and the best of the world. But she is also a woman of great doubt, and she has the tendency to let her doubts get the best of her.

She is a woman of great hope, and she has the ability to see the good in every situation. But she is also a woman of great despair, and she has the tendency to let her despair get the best of her.

She is a woman of great joy, and she has the ability to find happiness in every moment. But she is also a woman of great sorrow, and she has the tendency to let her sorrow get the best of her.

She is a woman of great peace, and she has the ability to find calm in every storm. But she is also a woman of great anger, and she has the tendency to let her anger get the best of her.

She is a woman of great wisdom, and she has the ability to see the truth in every situation. But she is also a woman of great ignorance, and she has the tendency to let her ignorance get the best of her.

She is a woman of great knowledge, and she has the ability to learn from every experience. But she is also a woman of great ignorance, and she has the tendency to let her ignorance get the best of her.

She is a woman of great power, and she has the ability to achieve her goals. But she is also a woman of great weakness, and she has the tendency to let her weakness get the best of her.

She is a woman of great strength, and she has the ability to overcome her obstacles. But she is also a woman of great weakness, and she has the tendency to let her weakness get the best of her.

She is a woman of great courage, and she has the ability to face her fears. But she is also a woman of great cowardice, and she has the tendency to let her cowardice get the best of her.

"Indulging no passions which trespass on the rights or the repose of other nations, it has been the true glory of the United States to cultivate peace by observing justice."—FROM JAMES MADISON'S FIRST INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

Why Plutocracy Is Using Its Biggest Guns Against the Hearst Papers, and Why It Fails

The American publishes today a few of many hundreds of letters and tributes that have come unbidden to the Hearst papers, during the war, FROM THE HIGHEST OFFICIALS, MILITARY AND CIVIL.

These letters show how appreciative all the high officials upon whom the heavy burden devolved of carrying on the war were and still are of the great and genuine service rendered by the Hearst newspapers.

They are all cordially appreciative, and many are tremendously grateful for the aid given them in their arduous tasks by the unstinted support, the unequalled publicity, and the power of the Hearst papers.

And so these men who were charged with the heaviest responsibilities, who were constantly wrestling with the most absorbing tasks of Government, army and navy organization, stopped many times in the midst of their labor TO SEND SPONTANEOUS TRIBUTES OF THANKS TO THE HEARST PAPERS for what they were doing to aid and stimulate all the energies and patriotism of the nation in making victorious war.

The many different dates on which these grateful tributes were written, the widely separated places from which they came, and the extraordinary diversity of the high officials, both military and civil, Federal and State, show how UNVARYING the policies and purposes of the Hearst papers were from the beginning to the end of the war, how UNIVERSALLY their influence was felt from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and how UNANIMOUSLY they were commended by the foremost men in the army, the navy and all the war organizations.

And yet a host of stay-at-home, do-nothing civilian detractors and calumniators are now filling the air and the columns of other newspapers—always hospitable to attacks upon the Hearst papers, whose great circulations are much envied—with baseless denunciation and vilification.

Our civilian assailants, WHO HATE US FOR OTHER REASONS, have all become Professional Patriots, although some of them took no creditable part in the war, and some took an absolutely discreditable part.

All are USING the war as an excuse to express their hatred and malice against Mr. Hearst and the Hearst papers—a hatred intensified immeasurably by the fact that policies for which the Hearst papers had fought for twenty years—

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF TELEGRAPHS AND TELEPHONES.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF RAILROADS, PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF GAS, ELECTRIC LIGHT AND CITY TRANSPORTATION LINES, A PUBLIC-OWNED MERCHANT MARINE, had suddenly, under the opportunity and necessity of war, been adopted by the Wilson Administration.

The force of public opinion has been concentrated behind these policies by the power and appeal of the Hearst papers.

Hence it became necessary for Plutocracy to direct its attacks upon the Hearst newspapers and, of course, to invent some other reason for attacking them than the great popular issue of public ownership.

So our war patrioters proceeded with characteristic unscrupulousness to invent garbled or forged quotations from the Hearst papers as bases for their attacks, to misrepresent what Mr. Hearst and his papers said and did, and rely upon malicious testimony of such untrustworthy persons as Deputy State Attorney General Becker and his convict agents. And even such as these are finally forced to admit on the stand that they have no FACTS to go on, but are only telling what they THOUGHT AND WANTED TO BELIEVE. They express, in short, only their private malice and hatred.

Even so distinguished a man as Mr. Roosevelt was misled into including in his ten-thousand-word attack on the President, Secretary Burleson and Mr. Hearst a garbled quotation from an editorial which someone had supplied him when the actual complete editorial had been so powerful a document in support of the Liberty Loan that the officials in charge of the loan had formally requested the Hearst papers to send seven thousand copies of this editorial to the various Federal Reserve Banks to be used as a basis for propaganda for the Liberty Loan.

So eminent a doctor of divinity as the rector of Trinity Church, New York, stoops to misrepresent Mr. Hearst's views on the Lusitania outrage, which the Hearst papers actually denounced savagely as "WHOLESALE MURDER."

Charles E. Hughes's highly technical legal mind makes him wary of garbled quotations or unfounded charges; HIS attack on Mr. Hearst is therefore based solely on his allegation that surely the heroic soldiers and sailors of our army and navy do not approve Mr. Hearst's course in the war. The official unsolicited testimonials and letters of praise and thanks published today from the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of War and from various Generals, Admirals and other officers of other rank clearly prove that the heroic soldiers and sailors of our army and navy DO approve of Mr. Hearst's course during the war. It can easily be proved, on the contrary, that the Hearst papers were more eagerly read and sought than any other papers in the various army camps and on our naval ships by the rank and file of both the army and navy. Moreover, the standing order for the Sunday New York American at the principal U. S. naval station at Hampton Roads, Va., EXCEEDS THAT OF ALL OTHER NEW YORK PAPERS COMBINED.

And the Cosmopolitan Magazine, another of Mr. Hearst's publications, in an official test was shown to be the favorite periodical publication of the officers and enlisted men, and far more in demand by them than any other magazine.

THE WAR AGAINST MR. HEARST IS A WAR AGAINST THE HEARST POLICIES IN GENERAL AND NOT IN THE SLIGHTEST JUSTIFIABLE DEGREE A WAR AGAINST WHAT MR. HEARST OR THE HEARST PAPERS SAID OR DID IN THE GREAT WAR. It is a kind of attack that has no basis in patriotism and no relation to the war itself.

It had its origin long before the war, and it will continue long after the war.

The immediate campaign of falsehood and slander for the present has been conducted with great bitterness and with enormous resources by our enemies, but with barren results, as far as the larger public is concerned, upon the fortunes of the Hearst papers, which are now more profitable and MORE WIDELY READ THAN EVER BEFORE.

Their fifteen million readers in the leading cities of the country are steadfast and INCREASING. It is because these papers are so widely read that it is impossible SUCCESSFULLY to misrepresent them.

We are very sorry when we see a few perfectly honest, well-meaning patriotic people who do not happen to read the Hearst papers misled, as they sometimes are, by distorted quotations or false statements, BUT WE ARE PROUD OF THE HATRED AND OPPOSITION OF THE KIND OF PEOPLE WHO FORGE QUOTATIONS OR INVENT FALSEHOODS ABOUT US.

We deflected the New York Central Railroad's plan to obtain the perpetual exclusive use, without compensation to the city, of Riverside Park and the Hudson River front for its freight tracks.

We deflected the incalculable war proflitering in the sale of the Southern Pacific Railroad's Rockaway Park site to the Government.

We have interfered with the predatory schemes of any number of rascally individuals and institutions, from the Milk Trust to the Oil Trust, and from the land lien sharks to the murderous management of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit.

We put at the head of every Hearst paper the words: "THESE PAPERS ARE COMMITTED TO THE POLICY OF PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF PUBLIC UTILITIES."

These events were naturally enough the immediate and inciting cause of A GENERAL ATTACK UPON THE HEARST PAPERS by the privileged interests, and by the lawyers, newspapers and other stipendiaries that they control.

The attack was very naturally begun by the house organ of the Mills estate, the NEW YORK TRIBUNE, a newspaper not supported by the public, representing no public interest, but an organ maintained by subsidy and representing only the selfish, private interests of the Mills estate and the investments of the Mills estate in the very railroads whose schemes we exposed and defeated.

The fight has been carried on by the most conspicuous regularly retained representatives of private special interests:

By Mr. Hughes, who was retained in the interest of the New York Central Railroad, and in the interests of the private telegraph companies, and in the interests of other selfish and sordid institutions, all of which the Hearst papers have opposed and some of which they have succeeded in indicting;

By Mr. Alton B. Parker, who, like Mr. Hughes, failed in politics because he chose to serve the corporations that pay big fees rather than the people;

By Mr. Root, the counsel and chief legal adviser of Tweed, of the Metropolitan Street Railway Syndicate when its agents were corrupting Legislatures and juries and "LOOTING NEW YORK," as a Justice of the Supreme Court truthfully and forcibly expressed it. General counsel, also, of the State Trust Company was Mr. Root when that company kept both Democratic and Republican county chairmen on its payroll and loaned State Insurance Superintendent Lou Payne $50,000 without security;

By Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, the fidus Achates of the Republican "Boss" Barnes. Dr. Butler and Mr. Root together wrote the reactionary new State Constitution, which the people rejected by FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND MAJORITY, a defeat unprecedented in this State, and a defeat largely due to the corporation reputations of Mr. Root and Dr. Butler, twin servants of privilege and machine politics;

By James M. Beck, another highly paid attorney of the same railroad interests, who devoted a two-hour speech at a Carnegie Hall mass meeting to voicing the antagonism of his employers in an attack on the Hearst papers. Two million copies of this speech were distributed by a so-called Patriotic Defense League, whose treasurer explained to an indignant subscriber that the funds used for the distribution were entirely from private sources, NOT FROM THE LEAGUE'S REGULAR FUNDS;

By the National Security League, a genuinely patriotic organization to protect the PUBLIC welfare until the corrupt got hold of it. The President of this League, when it was merely a patriotic organization and not merely a political agent to predatory wealth, declared, on April 28, 1917:

"William Randolph Hearst has been one of our greatest leaders for national security and universal training. When we were practically without any support he sprang to the front to carry on the cause. He has been there ever since. As in all things he takes up, he has done this with his whole heart and his full strength."

"The publication in his papers of the universal training petition is a tremendous thing. I cannot speak too highly or too warmly of Mr. Hearst's part in this great campaign."

But when this National Security League was later needed as a cloak for an attack on the Hearst papers its President was turned out and an appointee of Mr. Root, eminent reactionary Republican, and of Alton B. Parker, eminent reactionary Democrat, was put in to make the league duly obedient to its private proflitering masters.

This appointee, Charles E. Lydecker, was summoned before an investigating committee of Congress last week to explain why the National Security League, under its private corporation control, had attacked two-thirds of the members of the present Congress as pro-German. Asked how much money the league spent in its campaign of slander and innuendo and where the money came from, Mr. Lydecker reluctantly testified that the Carnegie Corporation had given $150,000 and the Rockefeller Foundation $50,000, and these contributions constituted near eight-ninths of the league's entire disbursement.

The Purse Potentates are very powerful in New York. They corrupt a great many men of high abilities and obtain their services, and they deceive some honest, well-meaning citizens by their camouflage of patriotism or benevolence. BUT THEY CANNOT CONTROL THE HEARST PAPERS AND THEY CANNOT DECEIVE THE READERS OF HEARST PAPERS.

The public causes for which the Hearst papers fight persistently cannot, if they succeed, bring any advantage or profit to the Hearst papers which they do not bring to every citizen. IF THEY FAIL, THE PEOPLE, NOT WE, ARE THE LOSERS, BUT WE WILL SEE TO IT THAT THEY DO NOT FAIL.

But we suspect that the fury of the present attack upon the Hearst papers is only a sign of the extreme anger, resentment and fear of some very powerful private interests over the obvious signs of the times.

They are using all their biggest guns and have ordered out all their reserves against us, which we take as a COMPLIMENT, but they greatly exaggerate their own importance and the effect of their efforts upon public opinion.

The same kind of fight has been made many times in the history of our country by reactionaries against every earnest advocate of progress, every sincere supporter of the greatest good for the greatest number.

Newspapers are born and THRIVE AND GROW in wars of this kind, and they ALWAYS languish and perish in the IGNOMINIOUS peace that follows SUBMISSION to selfish reactionary interests.

See how an impartial and able historian describes another fight of exactly this kind. James Parton, in his "History of Andrew Jackson and His Times," says:

"Cabinets, Congresses, Legislatures, Governors were usually chosen from the same class of society as that from which the governing men of Europe are chosen."

"The ruling class in the United States, as in all other countries, was chiefly composed of men dominant in business or men graduated at colleges who had passed the greater part of their lives on carpets."

"This educated class were not equal to the duty assigned to them—that of guiding their less fortunate countrymen. They were not equal to it then, and they are not now."

"Jefferson had accepted his share of this great trust and worthily strove to make the Government truly democratic. His life was a catalogue of benefactions to the people."

"But among American citizens of his social eminence, how many were there, HOW MANY ARE THERE TODAY, with understanding enough to comprehend, and unselfishness enough to live up to, THAT GREAT SENTIMENT OF DEMOCRACY WHICH HAS BREATHED ALL THE LIFE INTO THIS REPUBLIC THAT IT EVER POSSESSED?"

"How has this class hugged its privileges, genealogies, conservatisms, and all the other antiquated ideas of which even Europe itself is beginning to be ashamed, and is preparing to cast off as a tawdry garment?"

"The truly helpful men and women of this republic have come off from the plain people of humble homes, who worked their way up as rightful leaders by the strength of their own arms, brains and resolution, and by their fidelity to democracy."

"The triumph of Andrew Jackson in all his political and moral battles was due to his unshakable fidelity to the common people and to the courage with which he fought in their interest. Nothing—not even his many mistakes—could shake the confidence of his supporters."

"HIS SUCCESS MEANT THAT THE SCOTCHIE WAS ABOUT TO BE WRESTED FROM THE HANDS OF THOSE WHO HAD NOT SHOWN THEMSELVES WORTHY TO HOLD IT. WHEN THEY FELT IT GOING, HOWEVER, THEY MADE A VIGOROUS CLUTCH, AND LOST IT ONLY AFTER A DESPERATE STRUGGLE."

"In these contests, therefore, we find nearly all the talent, nearly all the learning, nearly all the concentrated wealth and social prestige, nearly all the business activity, nearly all the book-nourished intelligence, nearly all the silver-forked civilization of the country united in opposition to and hatred of Andrew Jackson, who represented the country's patriotic, democratic instincts and was unconquerable."

So James Parton wrote, fifty years ago, summing up a situation of ninety years ago, but human nature in the United States has not fundamentally changed since then; the conflict between progress and reaction is still waged, and still the forces of greed and aggression, the agents of selfishness and privilege, hate and attack the true leaders of democracy, the faithful servants of the people.
